Perris North Groundwater Program

In late 2020, Eastern Municipal Water District (EMWD) launched the Perris North Groundwater Program, which is a long-term solution to improve groundwater quality in the North Perris Groundwater Basin, in the Moreno Valley area.

The Program will address groundwater quality and supply deficits with an additional benefit of providing a safe and reliable drinking water supply for approximately 15,000 households annually.

The Program has received a grant from the State Water Resources Control Board — the largest single grant award in EMWD's history — which covers approximately half of the estimated project cost. The grant funding is part of the voter-approved Proposition 1 Water Bond of 2014.

The Program will include six groundwater production wells, a treatment facility, blending stations, conveyance pipelines, and 16 groundwater monitoring wells.

EMWD and neighboring Western Municipal Water District (Western) signed an agreement as part of the Program that will allow Western to purchase enough water to meet the current and future needs of March Air Reserve Base (March ARB). The Program will help address rising groundwater levels in the March ARB area that create infrastructure challenges.
